In this work, a multilayer OLED device is fabricated by inkjet printing process. Optimized bank structure is used to improve the sub-pixel uniformity. By adjusting the process parameters such as plasma processing time and vacuum dry speed, the quality of the film fabricated by inkjet printing is improved.