

Physicochemical properties of the peat which determine the distribution of plants in the Ozegahara moor

*Murakami Hiroki¹, Muneoki Yoh¹

1. Tokyo University of Agriculture and Technology

The Ozegahara moor is one of the well developed high moor. In the Ozegahara moor, there are various plants.

My study reveal that the distiribution of plants is determined by calcium concentration in peat porewater and ash contents in peat.

Keywords: peatland, vegetation, water quality