

Planetesimals to planets in a turbulent disk: collisional model dependence

*Hiroshi Kobayashi¹, Hidekazu Tanaka²

1. Department of Physics, Nagoya University, 2. Astronomical Institute, Tohoku University

We investigate the collisional growth of planetesimals in a turbulent disk, which depends on collisional models, turbulent strength, and disk masses. Moderate strength of turbulence produces massive planetary cores forming gas giants.

Keywords: collision, planet formation