

Scientific Research Output and Publication: research article, data, and digital transformation

*Yasuhiro Murayama<sup>1</sup>

1. Strategic Program Produce Office, National Institute of Information and Communications Technology

Scientific Research Output and Publication will be argued in terms of original research paper, research data, and digital transformation of the society, which is expected to contribute to the better conduct of science and better contribution to the society and tax payers for a longer term with sustainable ecocycle of scientific results, scientific data, scientists and scientific research investment. This paper attempts to discuss the points.

Keywords: open access, research data, digital transformation