The night view has features unique to the place that you feel or think about when you visit it, and features that are based on visual or other sensations that affect vision, and can be said to be spaces where you can have various thoughts. In order to find out the charm of night views, it is necessary to pay attention to the differences in emotions of various night landscapes. Therefore, in this study, we used lyrics to understand emotions at night, and used lyrics imagined by the lyricist. As a result, we were able to extract emotional tendencies recalled at night. This study revealed that many emotions act at night to compose emotions. I believe that being able to extract nighttime emotional tendencies will play a major role in understanding the charm of nightscapes from emotions.
