

Future perspectives of educational materials on geoscience

*Takayuki Ogata¹

1. Disaster Prevention Research Center for Island Regions, University of the Ryukyus

Geoscientific education is programmed in many educational institutes, such as primary schools, secondary schools, museums and geoparks. Many materials of geoscientific education are based on the government-approved textbooks, whereas the textbooks are partly unsuitable for academic knowledge of recent geoscience. Future geoscientific education requires educational materials and school curriculums which involve multi-disciplinary and inter-disciplinary geoscience.

Keywords: geoscience, school education, lifelong education, educational materials