

Current status of Consortium for Human Resource Development in Volcanology

*Takeshi Nishimura¹

1. Department of Geophysics, Graduate School of Science, Tohoku University

The purpose of this program is to train the next generation of volcano researchers, who will deepen our understanding of diverse volcanic phenomena, advance leading-edge volcanology research with strong international collaboration, and take on the challenge of disaster science mitigating volcanic hazards in a developed society. This presentation introduces the curriculum of the program and activity of the graduate students.

Keywords: Human resource development, volcanology